Co-op welcomes new employees

Guernsey-Muskingum Electric Cooperative, Inc., welcomes three new employees, Ed Wagner, Chad Forker and Tony Fowler, to the cooperative crew.

Ed began employment in July as Operations manager. He and his wife, Lynne, made the area their permanent residence in 2008 after having a cabin in the area for the previous 15 years. Ed hails from Ashland and his wife is from Shadyside. He is a graduate of Ohio University with a bachelor of science degree in electrical engineering and is a registered professional engineer in Ohio. They have two grown children and grandchildren who live in the Guernsey-Muskingum area. In their spare time, they enjoy boating at the local lakes and being in the great outdoors.

Chad started working for the cooperative in July as a second-class lineman. Chad is a graduate of West Muskingum High School and previously worked with Pike Electric on GMEC lines. He resides in Zanesville and has two daughters, Kyra and Taryn.

Tony began with the cooperative in August as an apprentice lineman. He is a graduate of the power lineman program at Mid-East Career Center in Zanesville and West Muskingum High School. During high school he worked with GMEC. His past experience is with Asplundh Tree Expert Co.

Energy Efficiency

Tip of the Month

It may be time to replace your refrigerator. A fridge made before 1993 could cost more than $100 each year to operate. A new ENERGY STAR-qualified model could cut your related energy costs in half. In addition, newer models keep food fresher longer.

Karaoke 'Country Style'

The Karaoke "Country Style" Contest was an opening day event sponsored by Guernsey-Muskingum Electric Cooperative, Inc., at the 164th Muskingum County Fair. A total of 30 singers in three age categories competed with their favorite tunes. In the under age 15 division the winner was Jocee Janicki from Duncan Falls. The winner for the 15 to 50 age group was Tiffany Beck of Zanesville. The winner of the over 50 age group was Dave Pennington of Newark. Each winner received a $100 U.S. Savings Bond and all participants received a sandwich and drink coupon to use at the fair.

Judges for the evening were Diane Treondly and Anne Treondly. Sound was provided by Sandy Groves.

The Seven Cooperative Principles

Cooperatives around the world generally operate according to the same core principles and values, adopted by the International Cooperative Alliance in 1995. The International Cooperative Alliance is a global membership association of co-ops and co-op support organizations. Cooperatives trace the roots of these principles to the first modern cooperative founded in Rochdale, England, in 1844.

1. Voluntary and Open Membership

Cooperatives are voluntary organizations, open to all people able to use their services and willing to accept the responsibilities of membership, without gender, social, racial, political or religious discrimination.

2. Democratic Member Control

Cooperatives are democratic organizations controlled by their members — those who buy the goods or use the services of the cooperative — who actively participate in setting policies and making decisions.

3. Members' Economic Participation

Members contribute equally to, and democratically control, the capital of the cooperative. This benefits members in proportion to the business they conduct with the cooperative, rather than on the capital invested.

4. Autonomy and Independence

Cooperatives are autonomous, self-help organizations controlled by their members. If the co-op enters into agreements with other organizations or raises capital from external sources, it is done so based on terms that ensure democratic control by the members and maintain the cooperative's autonomy.

5. Education, Training and Information

Cooperatives provide education and training for members, elected representatives, managers and employees so they can contribute effectively to the development of their cooperative. Members also inform the general public about the nature and benefits of cooperatives.

6. Cooperation Among Cooperatives

Cooperatives serve their members most effectively and strengthen the cooperative movement by working together through local, national, regional and international structures.

7. Concern for Community

While focusing on member needs, cooperatives work for the sustainable development of communities through policies and programs accepted by the members.

Updating contact information

Guernsey-Muskingum strives to be efficient as possible. In order to accomplish this, we need your help.

Today many households have gone cellular and discontinued use of land lines, Guernsey-Muskingum needs current contact numbers to reach its members. Phone numbers are used to contact members and can also be used for locating outage reports.

During heavy outages, GMEC employees often call back members to ensure that the power has in fact returned. Employees also use current information in our system to return calls and provide information regarding planned outages and more.

You may call the cooperative at 800-521-9879 or fill out the back of your bill (shown below) and return it with your payment. There is room on our system for both a home phone and a cell phone. If you would like to receive information via e-mail please include your e-mail address also.

Remember, Guernsey-Muskingum does not release or sell phone numbers or e-mail addresses.

Ask the right questions about wind

Interested in buying a wind turbine? Make sure to ask these questions first.

1. How reliable is the rated energy output? How did you calculate the output? What wind speeds did you use?

Experts advise ignoring peak output and power curves provided by vendors. Rather, look for the monthly or annual energy output — in kilowatt-hours — for the turbine, estimated for the average wind speed that you expect or have measured at your site.

2. Is the inverter UL listed?

If the inverter (required to convert direct current power from the turbine to alternating current power of the grid) is not Underwriters Laboratories, Inc. (UL), listed, find another vendor. Most electric co-ops require that an inverter carry a UL 1741 certification for interconnection with the grid.

3. What is the estimated total installed cost? What does the turbine cost? What does the tower cost? How much is installation estimated to cost? How much will interconnection cost? How much maintenance will be required and what will it cost?

Budget for labor expenses as well as the cost of equipment rental, concrete and rebar, electrical components, shipping, and sales tax. It adds up fast.

4. How long is the warranty? What does it cover — parts? Labor? Can it be extended? If so, what will it cost?

Warranties range from one to five years. The longer the warranty, the better. Make sure the warranty covers labor as well as parts. Ask owners of wind systems purchased from the same vendor about performance and reliability before making a decision on an extended warranty, if available.

If you live in an area prone to lightning strikes, you should strongly consider the option of lightning protection.

5. How long has the vendor been in business?

How many turbines have they sold? Have their turbines been certified? Can they perform maintenance, or is there another licensed repair technician in the area?

Look for vendors that have been in business for at least five years or have acquired the product line of another vendor. In addition, ask the vendor for the names of at least two people who have installed a similar model wind turbine. Check with the references to ensure they are happy. Ask them if there was anything they wish they had known before investing in a turbine.

The Small Wind Certification Council has been conducting a small wind certification process in the U.S. (www.smallwindcertification.org). Small wind turbines can be certified using the International Electrotechnical Commission (IEC) standard, IEC 61400-2, for testing wind turbine power performance. This standard is increasingly used by U.S. manufacturers.

6. What are your electric co-op's interconnection policies? What will the co-op pay for any excess energy you may produce?

Electric cooperatives must provide all of their members with safe, reliable, affordable electric service. Most co-ops have interconnection policies designed to permit interested members to own their own generation without impacting the quality or cost of service received by other members. Knowing what those policies are before purchasing a wind turbine will help you better evaluate the full costs and benefits of the investment.

7. What local zoning laws, electrical codes, homeowners' association requirements or other local laws and standards apply to wind turbines?

Some local zoning ordinances and homeowners' association policies restrict the height of wind turbines or require that they be set back a specified distance from the property line. Those restrictions may prevent you from taking advantage of the best wind resources or may require extra time to pursue a waiver or exception. Local electrical or building codes may also impose additional time or expense.

Keep Halloween a safe night

With witches, goblins and superheroes descending on neighborhoods across America, the American Red Cross offers parents some safety tips to help prepare their children for a safe and enjoyable trick-or-treat holiday. Halloween should be filled with surprise and enjoyment, and following some common-sense practices can keep events safer and more fun.

- Walk, slither and sneak on sidewalks, not in the street.
- Look both ways before crossing the street to check for cars, trucks and low-flying brooms. Cross the street only at corners.
- Don't hide or cross the street between parked cars.
- Wear light-colored or reflective-type clothing so you are more visible. (And remember to put reflective tape on bikes, skateboards and brooms, too!)

- Plan your route and share it with your family. If possible, have an adult go with you.
- Carry a flashlight to light your way. Keep away from open fires and candles. (Costumes can be extremely flammable.)
- Visit homes that have the porch light on.
- Accept your treats at the door and never go into a stranger's house.
- Use face paint rather than masks or things that will cover your eyes.
- Be cautious of animals and strangers.
- Have a grownup inspect your treats before eating. And don't eat candy if the package already is opened. Small, hard pieces of candy are a choking hazard for young children.
